An Address Delivered Before the Fourteenth Annual Meeting of the Illinois Historical Society Upon the Life and Services of Benjamin Lundy By GEORGE A. LAWRENCE By Nebo slonly mountain. On this side Jordan swave, In a vale in the land of Moab, There lies a lonely grave. But no man dug that sepulcher And no man saw it eer. For the angels of God upturned the sod And laid the dead man there. These beautiful lines of Mrs. Alexander swere written of a prophet and pioneer of the far away years; of the man divinely appointed to become the leader of the chosen people; of a man who left behind him all that was alluring in life wealth, almost kingly power, and a possible life of ease to undertake the forty years wandering in the wilderness, to endure the complaints and seditions of those he served, and to meet his death without having entered the promised land, to the very verge of which he brought his followers.(Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and dont occur in the book.)About the Publisher Forgotten Books is a publisher of historical writings, such as: Philosophy, Classics, Science, Religion, History, Folklore and Mythology.Forgotten Books Classic Reprint Series utilizes the latest technology to regenerate facsimiles of historically important writings.
