

Readings in the Philosophy of Religion: East Meets West

Through a diverse collection of carefully chosen selections, Readings in Philosophy of Religion: East Meets West offers an enlightening array of perspectives on Western and non-Western religious thought that makes more meaningful trans-cultural connections possible within philosophy of religion. Includes a substantial selection of non-Western religious perspectives that are accessible to both students and instructors. Provides further clarity with comprehensive chapter introductions to orient reader to upcoming selections. Incorporates discussion of topics often neglected, such as religious non-realism, post-modernism, and feminist philosophy of religion.
